General Market Information

1 House Prices and Homeowners Equity

House Price Trends

- House prices on the rise have been driven by historically low interest rates in combination with an economic upswing
- The Danish Central Bank expects an increase in house prices of around 3.1 per cent per annum in 2019
- Number of houses sold is back to more "normal" levels

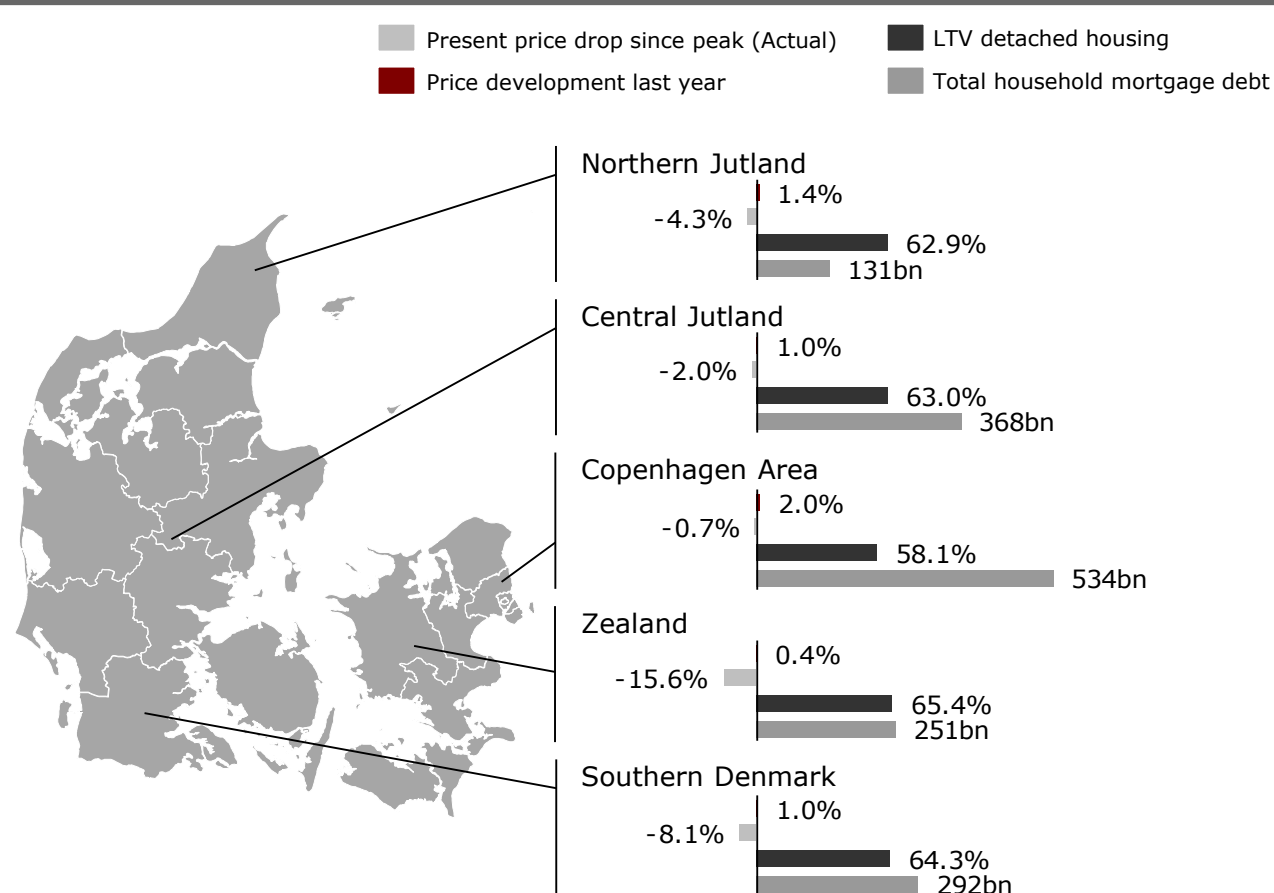

Homeowners Equity

- Homeowners' equity was DKK 1,586bn end 2018Q4
- Since the beginning of 2012 homeowners' equity has risen by DKK 650bn
- In the same period total lending increased by DKK 178bn and thus the total value of the housing stock has increased by DKK 828bn

1 Geographical Dispersion

Private lending in Denmark in total

- House prices are generally increasing
- Total mortgage debt in the Copenhagen area is the highest in the country. However, LTV is only 58.1% and house prices are on the rise

1 Unemployment and Real Wage Growth

Real Wage Growth

- Real wage growth in Q2 2019 stood at 1.17%.

Unemployment

- Gross unemployment rate has declined over the past years and stood at 3.8 per cent end Q2 2019
- In a historical perspective unemployment is on a low level

1 Homeowner Affordability and Foreclosures

Homeowner Affordability

- Housing remains affordable compared to a 30 year average. However, the Capital region is very close to average (index 100)
- Recent house price inflation is off-set by low interest rates
- The likely impact of interest rate hikes would be a downward trend in house prices.

Foreclosures

- The number of foreclosed properties in Denmark in June 2019 was 158
- The number of foreclosures is at "normal levels"
- The duration of a foreclosure is approx. 6 months from missed payments to completion

Danish Economy Outlook

- The growth in the Danish and European economy is expected to be 1.7 and 1.2 percent, respectively, in 2019
- Interest rates are a key element in the household economy
- Certificates of deposit rate currently stands at -0.65% p.a.
- We expect the ECB to lower its key policy rate from -0,4% to -0,6% at the September meeting. After this meeting we expect unchanged policy rate over the coming 12 months
- In general the Danish Central Bank follows the ECB due to the fixed exchange rate regime vis-à-vis the euro. However we only expect the Danish Central Bank to lower its policy rate from -0,65 % to -0,75 % after the ECB-meeting in September. No independent rate hikes are expected the coming 12 months
